

1. UROS – AMANTANÍ – TAQUILE FLOATING ISLANDS TOUR

Keywords: Uros Floating Islands / Uros Floating Islands tour / Uros Floating Islands Perú

OVERVIEW

MACHUPICCHU DESTINOS TRAVEL takes care of your morning hotel pickup in Puno and transfers you directly to the local harbor. From there, you'll cross Lake Titicaca by motorboat to reach the Uros Floating Islands Perú, where a guided walk across the reed platforms comes before the boat ride onward to Amantaní Island.

Our agency organizes overnight lodging inside local homes and leads the climb toward the Pachatata ceremonial center for sweeping views of the surroundings. We take care of the welcome ceremony and shared dinner with the community, plus a sunrise breakfast, before the boat sets off again toward Taquile Island.

The itinerary continues with a walk into Taquile's main village to explore Andean customs and its well-known textile craftsmanship. A traditional lakeside lunch is included, and we handle the return boat to Puno's port, finishing the day with your transfer back to the Plaza de Armas.

ITINERARY

DAY 01: Puno – Uros – Amantaní

Pickup from your hotel happens between 6:40 a.m. and 7:00 a.m., heading to the port of Puno (3,827 masl). From there we board a motorboat bound for the Uros Floating Islands (3,810 masl) for a guided tour of this age-old Titicaca community.

Built entirely from reeds, the Uros islands use this material for housing, boats, and daily tools. The visit covers two to three islands, giving you a look at local life, with an optional ride aboard a traditional reed vessel.

Next, we sail on to Amantaní Island (3,817 masl) for an immersive stay with a local family. That afternoon, we climb to the Pachatata lookout (4,150 masl), the island's summit, and in the evening join a community-hosted dinner and welcome celebration.

STATISTICS DAY 01

- Route: Puno – Uros – Amantaní – Pachatata
- Distance: Approximately 40 km
- Maximum altitude: 4,150 masl
- Minimum altitude: 3,810 masl

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

How long is this program and what islands does it cover?

It's a two-day trip covering Uros, Amantaní, and Taquile on Lake Titicaca — one of the most complete lake circuits in the region thanks to the three very different island cultures visited during this Uros Floating Islands tour.

What can I expect from the Amantaní homestay?

You'll spend the night inside a local family's home, living day-to-day life alongside them. It's the most genuine part of the trip, letting you share meals and traditions directly with the people of the island.

What exactly is Pachatata and how do you reach it?

It's the ceremonial site sitting at Amantaní's highest point (4,150 masl), reached by walking uphill from the port. It's the most demanding stretch of the Uros Floating Islands Perú route, combining altitude with a steady climb.

What happens at night on Amantaní?

The local community puts on a welcome celebration with music and dance, inviting visitors to dress in traditional clothing and take part. It's one of the standout moments of the entire trip, unlike anything found elsewhere in the region.

How many islands make up the Uros visit on day one?

Two to three floating reed islands are toured, giving enough time to understand how residents live day to day. This first stop opens the door to the rest of the Uros Floating Islands tour before reaching Amantaní and Taquile.

How much time do we spend on Taquile on the second day?

Roughly 3 hours are set aside to walk the village, learn about its textile traditions, and enjoy a lunch built around trout and local ingredients, ahead of the boat ride back to Puno.

Does the altitude affect the trip over both days?

The route moves between 3,810 masl at Uros and 4,150 masl at Pachatata, so getting used to the altitude in Puno beforehand is a good idea — ideally at least one day before starting the lake titicaca Uros Floating Islands experience.

What food is included throughout the program?

Dinner and breakfast on Amantaní are prepared by your host family using lake-sourced ingredients, while day two's lunch on Taquile features fresh trout and other regional dishes.

Is it possible to shop for handicrafts on the islands?

Local artisans across all three islands sell textiles, embroidered pieces, and handmade souvenirs. Carrying cash in soles is recommended, as card payments aren't accepted anywhere on the islands.

What should I pack clothing-wise for these two days?

Warm layered clothing along with a windproof, waterproof jacket are key, since Amantaní nights turn quite cold. Sun protection matters too — the lake's intense sunlight calls for sunscreen and sunglasses throughout the Uros Floating Islands Perú trip.

2. UROS AND TAQUILE FLOATING ISLANDS FULL DAY TOUR

Keywords: Uros Floating Islands tour / lake titicaca Uros Floating Islands / Uros Floating Islands Perú

OVERVIEW

We at MACHUPICCHU DESTINOS TRAVEL handle your early pickup from hotels in Puno, driving you straight to the lake's main dock. From there, a motorboat carries you across Lake Titicaca toward the Uros Floating Islands Perú, where a guided walk over the reed platforms comes with the option of a native raft ride.

Our team then manages the continuing boat trip to Taquile Island, leading the uphill walk into the community's central village. Expert guiding covers local customs and Taquile's renowned textile traditions, with time built in to explore the town and its surroundings at your own pace.

The itinerary wraps up with the boat ride back to Puno's port and a final transfer to the area around the Plaza de Armas. We close this lake titicaca Uros Floating Islands day with full support throughout the journey.

ITINERARY

Puno – Uros – Taquile – Puno

Pickup takes place between 6:40 a.m. and 7:00 a.m. from your hotel or an agreed meeting spot, heading to Puno's port (3,827 masl). From there we board a motorboat toward the Uros Floating Islands tour (3,810 masl) for a guided visit.

The Uros are floating settlements built on reed islands, a material used for homes, boats, and everyday tools. We tour two to three islands, with an optional ride on a traditional reed vessel included along the way.

We then sail on to Taquile Island (3,950 masl), walking 40 to 50 minutes up to the town. Roughly 3 hours are spent taking in the scenery, local customs, and textile traditions, alongside time to connect with residents.

We return by boat to Puno (3,827 masl), arriving between 4:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m., where the service wraps up at the Plaza de Armas or another arranged point.

STATISTICS

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What time does the boat depart from Puno?

Pickups run between 6:40 am and 7:00 am to reach the port and board the boat, with this Uros Floating Islands tour wrapping up back in Puno between 4:00 pm and 5:00 pm.

What are the Uros Floating Islands made from?

They're built entirely of reeds, a water plant native to Lake Titicaca used for the platform itself, homes, and boats. It's one of the most distinctive lifestyles you'll encounter on the lake titicaca Uros Floating Islands experience.

How many Uros islands does the tour visit?

Two to three floating islands are covered, with time to ask questions and understand how residents live. Each island has its own rhythm, making for an interesting contrast throughout the day.

Can visitors ride in a reed boat?

Yes, an optional ride aboard a traditional reed vessel is available during the Uros stop — a unique way to experience the lake as part of the Uros Floating Islands Perú journey.

How long does it take to walk to Taquile's main village?

The walk from the dock to the village runs 40 to 50 minutes at a moderate pace. Once there, about 3 hours are available to explore the scenery, customs and textile traditions of the island.

What makes Taquile's textiles so well known?

UNESCO has recognized Taquile's textile work as Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity for its technique and cultural significance — one of the highlights of the Uros Floating Islands Perú route, where you can watch weavers at work.

How does the altitude of Lake Titicaca affect the day?

Elevations range between 3,810 and 3,950 masl, so it helps to acclimatize in Puno beforehand. Taking the Taquile climb slowly and staying hydrated makes for a smoother day.

How long is the boat ride between the islands?

Puno to Uros takes roughly 30 to 40 minutes, and Uros to Taquile around 2 hours — time well spent admiring the world's highest navigable lake during the Uros Floating Islands tour.

Is it possible to buy handicrafts on the islands?

Yes, artisans on both islands sell textiles, embroidery and souvenirs using traditional methods. Cash in soles is recommended, since cards aren't accepted anywhere on the islands.

What should I wear for this tour?

Warm layered clothing, a windproof jacket, and a hat are a good idea, since lake winds can drop temperatures fast. Strong high-altitude sun also calls for sunscreen and sunglasses throughout the trip.

3. RUTA DEL SOL CUSCO PUNO FULL DAY TOUR

Keywords: la ruta del sol / ruta del sol

OVERVIEW

MACHUPICCHU DESTINOS TRAVEL handles your morning hotel pickup in Cusco to kick off the overland trip along the celebrated ruta del sol. We lead the guided visit to Andahuaylillas' San Pedro Apóstol Church and the Raqchi archaeological site, plus a stop at La Raya Pass to soak in views of the high Andes.

A buffet lunch at a roadside restaurant is part of the plan, featuring local dishes and warm traditional drinks along the way. We also guide the tour through the Pukara lithic museum's monoliths and ceramic collections before continuing toward the Puno region.

The trip wraps up with arrival at your accommodation in the lake city, backed by full logistical assistance throughout check-in. We close this la ruta del sol journey with private transport and consistent service standards across the whole interregional route.

ITINERARY

Cusco – Andahuaylillas – Raqchi – La Raya Pass – Pukara – Puno

The journey kicks off from Cusco with pickup between 6:30 a.m. and 7:00 a.m. from your accommodation or agreed point. First stop: the San Pedro Apóstol Church in Andahuaylillas (3,122 masl), nicknamed the "Sistine Chapel of America."

Next comes the Raqchi archaeological complex – Temple of Wiracocha (3,475 masl), a key Inca site in Canchis province, one of the highlights of la ruta del sol. A stop follows at La Raya Pass (4,335 masl), the highest point of the trip, ideal for photos.

A buffet lunch is served at a tourist restaurant along the way, offering national and regional specialties plus hot beverages such as coca tea, coffee, or tea, before the journey resumes.

The final stop is the Pukara lithic museum (3,900 masl), housing monoliths, sculptures, and ceramics from the Pucará culture. Arrival in Puno (3,827 masl) is expected between 5:00 p.m. and 5:30 p.m., wrapping up this ruta del sol experience.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What time does the vehicle leave Cusco, and how long is the drive?

Pickup happens between 6:30 am and 7:00 am, with arrival in Puno between 5:00 pm and 5:30 pm. This route spans roughly 390 km and includes several cultural stops along the ruta del sol.

Where is the Sistine Chapel of America and what is it?

It refers to the San Pedro Apóstol Church in Andahuaylillas, famous for its ornate colonial paintings and decoration. It's the opening stop on la ruta del sol, showcasing some of the finest viceregal art found in the Andes.

What's worth seeing at the Raqchi archaeological site?

Raqchi sits at 3,475 masl and features the Temple of Wiracocha, known for its towering stone-and-adobe walls. It ranks among the best-preserved Inca structures on this entire route.

What exactly is La Raya Pass and its elevation?

It's the highest point of the trip at 4,335 masl, serving as the natural boundary between Cusco and Puno. A great photo stop with sweeping Andean views awaits along ruta del sol.

What does the Pukara Lithic Museum display?

It houses monoliths, sculptures and ceramic pieces from the Pucará culture, one of the altiplano's most significant pre-Inca civilizations, marking the last cultural stop before Puno.

How many acclimatization days are advisable before the trip?

Spending 1 to 2 days in Cusco beforehand is recommended, since La Raya Pass climbs to 4,335 masl. Staying hydrated and moving slowly at each stop makes a real difference along the ruta del sol.

What's Puno's elevation, and how could it affect me?

Puno sits at 3,827 masl and can trigger altitude sickness, particularly for those new to the altiplano. This route offers a gradual transition that helps the body adapt throughout the day.

Is lunch included, and where does it happen?

Yes — a buffet lunch is included at a roadside tourist restaurant serving national dishes plus hot drinks like coca tea and coffee, a relaxed stop before reaching Pukara.

How long are the walking stretches at each site?

Each stop involves only a short walk, about 1 km, with no steep climbs. The moderate difficulty rating mainly reflects the altitude and the overall length of the drive.

Does the tour finish in Puno, or does it come back to Cusco?

It wraps up in Puno with no return trip to Cusco, making it a great fit for travelers continuing onward through the altiplano — ruta del sol links both cities in one single day.

4. MAGIC WATER CIRCUIT LIMA HALF DAY TOUR

Keywords: Magic Water Circuit Lima / Magic Water Circuit Lima Perú

OVERVIEW

MACHUPICCHU DESTINOS TRAVEL takes care of your evening pickup from city hotels and transfers you directly to Parque de la Reserva. From there, a guided walk leads through the Magic Water Circuit Lima Perú, weaving past the ornamental fountains and setting you up for the best view of the synchronized light-and-water shows.

Our team stays with you throughout the park's performances, guiding access to the main viewing areas for the projections displayed across the water structures. We break down the technical workings behind the complex, pointing out the cybernetic and hydraulic systems tied to the lasers and music.

The evening wraps up inside the venue before we arrange your transfer back to your accommodation. We close this Magic Water Circuit Lima experience with full professional support for a smooth nighttime outing.

ITINERARY

Hotel – Parque de la Reserva – Magic Water Circuit

Pickup starts at your hotel, heading to Parque de la Reserva, home to the Magic Water Circuit Lima Perú (approx. 120 masl). This park holds a Guinness World Record as the largest public fountain park on the planet.

Twelve cybernetic ornamental fountains make up the circuit, with the tallest reaching 80 meters. Throughout the visit, water, laser lights, music, and images come together in a perfectly synchronized show.

An audiovisual display also plays across the fountains, featuring scenes representative of Perú. The tour gives you time to explore the venue and enjoy the varying water-and-light choreographies.

We then wrap things up and head back to the hotel, with the whole experience running roughly between 5:30 p.m. and 9:00 p.m.

STATISTICS

- Route: Hotel – Parque de la Reserva – Magic Water Circuit – Hotel
- Distance: Approximately 10 km (urban)
- Maximum altitude: 120 masl
- Minimum altitude: 120 masl

- Jacket or fleece for the cool Lima nights
- Comfortable closed shoes
- Extra clothes in case the children get wet in the fountains
- Camera or cell phone with good night vision function
- Water bottle
- Cash for personal expenses

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What are the start and end times for this tour?

The experience runs roughly between 5:30 pm and 9:00 pm, hotel transfers included — a nighttime outing perfect for filling an otherwise free Lima evening.

How many fountains are part of the Magic Water Circuit?

Twelve cybernetic fountains, each with its own design, are spread across the park. This Magic Water Circuit Lima attraction holds the Guinness record for the largest public fountain park worldwide.

Which fountain stands out the most?

The main fountain rises 80 meters high, making it one of the tallest in the circuit, complemented by laser lighting and music synced for a complete visual spectacle.

What's shown in the projected audiovisual display?

Scenes representative of Perú are projected onto the water curtains, which serve as natural screens. It's one of the most memorable parts of the Magic Water Circuit Lima Perú visit, blending technology, history, and art.

Is this a good tour for children?

Absolutely — it's one of the most family-friendly outings around thanks to its colors, lights, and water displays, and it's rated easy with no demanding walking involved.

How much time do we spend at the park?

There's enough time inside the venue to see all the fountains and catch the light-and-water shows, with the evening schedule designed to make full use of your visit.

Can visitors interact with or get wet from the fountains?

Certain fountains allow direct contact with the water, especially those built with families in mind — worth bringing clothes that can get wet if visiting with children.

Is the venue indoors or open-air?

It's entirely outdoors, so Lima's weather can play a role in your visit. A light jacket helps with the city's typical nighttime cool-down.

Is round-trip hotel transport part of the package?

Yes, pickup and return to your hotel are both included, coordinated according to where you're staying in the city.

When's the ideal time of year to go?

The park runs all year, though December through March brings warmer weather and more pleasant evenings for enjoying the outdoor show.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

How long does this Lima tour take in total?

It's a half-day circuit covering the city's key historic and modern landmarks in one go, running from Huaca Pucllana through to Parque del Amor in Miraflores with tourist transport included throughout.

What makes Huaca Pucllana such an important site?

It's an archaeological and ceremonial complex from the Lima culture, sitting right in the middle of Miraflores. Regarded as a Sacred Village by the Incas, it's among the oldest stops on this city tour lima experience.

What does the Historic Center portion of the tour include?

You'll walk through Plaza Mayor, the Government Palace, Lima's Cathedral, and other colonial-era landmarks. It's the historic centerpiece of the route and where viceregal architecture is most concentrated in the city.

What exactly are the San Francisco catacombs?

These underground colonial passageways sit beneath the San Francisco Monastery, holding the remains of thousands from the viceregal period. It's one of the most striking parts of the city tour lima Perú, included with entry to the monument complex.

What's the highlight at Parque del Amor in Miraflores?

It's a scenic overlook with panoramic Pacific views, adorned with colorful mosaic art and the well-known kissing statue — the most photogenic way to close out the tour before heading back.

What is Parque El Olivar known for?

It's a green urban space in San Isidro filled with centuries-old olive trees dating back to colonial times, offering a calm, picturesque break from the busier historic center.

Is entry to the San Francisco catacombs part of the package?

Yes, catacomb access comes with the visit to the San Francisco Monastery Complex, guided from inside the convent with context on its history and colonial religious art.

How much time is dedicated to the Historic Center?

It's the section where the most time is spent, given how many landmarks it covers along with the San Francisco stop — the true cultural heart of the whole city tour lima route.

Can seniors or those with mobility issues do this tour comfortably?

It's rated easy, with short walks on flat urban terrain and no major elevation changes, though the catacombs do require using stairs — worth keeping in mind for very limited mobility.

When's the best time of year for this tour?

Lima stays mild year-round, though December through March brings sunnier skies and warmer days. The city tour lima Perú operates every month without seasonal breaks.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What time does the trip leave Lima and how long does it take?

The drive leaves very early, taking around 4 hours to Paracas. This full-day huacachina tour returns to Lima between 10:00 pm and 10:30 pm.

What kind of wildlife is visible at the Ballestas Islands?

You'll spot sea lions, Humboldt penguins, and numerous guano birds in their natural setting — one of the most memorable stops of the Huacachina tour from Lima thanks to the wildlife packed onto the rocks.

Where can you see the Candelabro and what is it?

It's a geoglyph etched into the Paracas hillsides, visible from the boat en route to the islands. Its true origin and purpose remain a mystery that the guide explains along the way.

Is sandboarding at Huacachina difficult?

It's accessible even without prior experience, since the dunes vary in difficulty level. About 45 minutes are spent on dune activities, combined with the buggy ride, during this huacachina oasis tour.

How does the dune buggy ride work?

These are large off-road vehicles that speed across the dunes with sharp turns and steep drops — a real adrenaline rush ahead of the sandboarding session.

What happens at the winery stop?

You'll learn the traditional process behind Ica's wine and pisco production, with a guided tasting included — a cultural pause that balances out the adventure and nature elements of the day.

Is lunch part of the package?

Lunch is on your own at local spots in Ica, with plenty of time to eat before the afternoon's activities. Bringing cash for food is a good idea.

How much free time is there at the Huacachina Oasis?

There's time to wander, snap photos, and take in the desert views before heading back — a striking, photogenic spot with dunes and palm trees framing the lagoon.

Can kids or older travelers join this tour?

The city and island portions work for all ages, though sandboarding and buggies suit those without physical or heart conditions best. It's entirely possible to skip the adrenaline activities and still enjoy the rest of the Huacachina tour from Lima.

When is the best time of year for this trip?

Perú's coast enjoys warm, sunny weather almost year-round, with December through March being the warmest stretch. The tour runs every month with no seasonal breaks.

OVERVIEW

MACHUPICCHU DESTINOS TRAVEL takes care of your pickup from meeting points in Cusco, transferring you straight to the Cruzpata sector. A safety talk and hands-on practice come before setting off on the Maras Moray tour route toward Moray's circular agricultural terraces for a close look at these archaeological structures.

From there, our team drives you on to the Maras Salt Mines, where entry on foot leads into the extraction pools. A specialized guided walk explains the traditional salt-harvesting system, covering the evaporation process and how local communities manage this water resource.

The day wraps up exploring the Sacred Valley before the drive back into Cusco's historic center. We close this atv Maras Moray adventure with arrival near Plaza Regocijo, backed by support through the final stretch of the day.

ITINERARY

DAY 01: Cusco – Cruzpata – Moray – Maras Salt Mines – Cusco

Pickup happens at the office or meeting point, heading to Cruzpata (3,520 masl) in about 45 minutes. On arrival, a safety briefing and 15-to-20-minute riding practice get you ready for the route.

The atv Maras Moray ride then heads toward Moray (3,500 masl), one of the Sacred Valley's top attractions, with the full round trip — including the visit — taking about 2 hours.

Next stop: the Maras Salt Mines (3,380 masl), a set of salt pools worked since ancient times, reached on foot after arriving by vehicle.

After the visit, tourist transport takes you back to Cusco (3,399 masl), ending at Plaza Regocijo, just a block from the Plaza de Armas.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Is previous riding experience required?

Not at all — this atv Maras Moray trip includes a briefing plus a 15-to-20-minute practice run before the actual route starts, with the guide keeping pace controlled for everyone.

How long does the ATV portion to Moray take?

Roughly 2 hours round trip, including time at the site — combining the excitement of riding with a look at the Inca circular terraces during this Maras Moray tour.

What exactly is Moray?

An Inca archaeological complex made up of concentric circular terraces once used as an agricultural testing ground — one of the most visually striking stops on the tour.

How does the Maras Salt Mines visit work?

You'll walk in from the drop-off point after arriving by vehicle, touring more than 3,000 salt pools still worked by hand since Inca times as part of this Maras Moray tour.

Is there a minimum age for driving the ATV?

Best to check at booking time, since minimum ages for solo riders can vary. Kids can ride as passengers alongside an adult on the same vehicle.

What kind of terrain will we ride through?

Expect dirt roads and farm trails through Sacred Valley scenery, with Andean peaks in view. No extreme off-road experience is needed, though staying alert while riding matters throughout the atv Maras Moray route.

Where does this tour begin and finish?

It starts at the Cusco office or meeting point and wraps up at Plaza Regocijo, a block from the main square — a same-day loop from the city.

Can I bring a camera along for the ride?

Yes, just keep it in a sealed bag to shield it from dust and vibration — the scenery along the way makes for great photo opportunities.

What should I wear for this trip?

Comfortable dark clothing, closed sneakers, and a light windbreaker work well. Sun protection is key too, given the intensity of the high-altitude sun during the Maras Moray tour.

Does the altitude here cause any issues?

The route sits between 3,380 and 3,520 masl, manageable for anyone already acclimatized in Cusco — generally low-risk for those with a day or two in the city beforehand.

8. MACHU PICCHU BY CAR 2D/1N TOUR

Keywords: Machu Picchu by car / Cusco to Machu Picchu by car

OVERVIEW

MACHUPICCHU DESTINOS TRAVEL handles your morning pickup in Cusco for the drive toward the Hidroeléctrica station, stopping in Ollantaytambo and Santa Teresa for lunch along the way. A walk along the railway line — or an optional local train ride — makes up the start of this Cusco to Machu Picchu by car adventure, leading into your Aguas Calientes accommodation.

Our team then manages the choice of ascent the next morning, whether on foot or by authorized shuttle bus, toward the historic sanctuary. Specialized guiding takes you through the citadel's key sites — the Temple of the Sun, the Inca's House, the Temple of the Condor, the Main Plaza, and the Intihuatana — with plenty of time for photos.

The trip wraps up with the descent to Hidroeléctrica for the final transfer back to Cusco. We close this Machu Picchu by car experience with the drive through Andean scenery, ending near downtown Cusco.

ITINERARY

DAY 01: Cusco – Ollantaytambo – Hidroeléctrica – Aguas Calientes

Pickup happens between 6:00 a.m. and 7:30 a.m., departing Cusco (3,399 masl) toward Hidroeléctrica (1,890 masl), with a brief stop in Ollantaytambo (2,792 masl) for water, snacks, or last-minute items.

The route continues through the Málaga Pass (4,316 masl), Santa María (1,200 masl), and Santa Teresa (1,550 masl), where a roughly 40-minute lunch break takes place before heading on to Hidroeléctrica — the starting point for this Machu Picchu by car walk into Aguas Calientes.

From there, a roughly 2-hour-30-minute walk leads to Aguas Calientes (2,040 masl), with an optional train ride available at extra cost. Free time follows at your accommodation to rest or visit the local hot springs.

STATISTICS DAY 01

- Route: Cusco – Ollantaytambo – Málaga Pass – Santa María – Santa Teresa – Hidroeléctrica – Aguas Calientes
- Distance: Approximately 220 km + 10 km walking
- Maximum altitude: 4,316 masl
- Minimum altitude: 1,200 masl

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What sets this route apart from the train-based tour?

This Cusco to Machu Picchu by car option is a more adventurous alternative blending overland travel, sierra and jungle scenery, and a riverside walk to Aguas Calientes — a lower-cost way to reach the citadel off the beaten path.

How long is the Hidroeléctrica-to-Aguas-Calientes walk?

Around 2 hours and 30 minutes, following the tracks along the river. It's part of day one of this Machu Picchu by car trip, with an optional local train available for an extra fee.

How long does the climb to Machu Picchu take on day two?

On foot, about 1 hour and 40 minutes from Aguas Calientes; by bus, roughly 25 minutes — a good option for saving energy ahead of the visit.

Which parts of Machu Picchu does the tour cover?

The 2.5-to-3-hour guided visit takes in the Temple of the Sun, the Inca's House, the Temple of the Condor, the Main Plaza, and the Intihuatana, with a specialized guide explaining each site's significance.

What does the first day's overland scenery look like?

Expect the Málaga Pass at 4,316 masl with snowy peaks, Santa María at 1,200 masl with tropical greenery, and Santa Teresa at 1,550 masl in the cloud forest — one of the most varied days on this Cusco to Machu Picchu by car route.

Is lunch included on the first day?

Yes, in Santa Teresa, with about a 40-minute stop before continuing on. It's worth confirming at booking whether it's included or on your own.

What can I do in Aguas Calientes during downtime?

The town has a craft market, local eateries, and optional hot springs for an extra cost — a great way to unwind before day two of the Machu Picchu by car experience.

What time do we get back to Cusco on the second day?

Arrival timing depends on the day's start, but it's generally in the afternoon following the visit and walk back to Hidroeléctrica.

Is this trip good for beginners with no hiking background?

It involves demanding walks both days, including the 2.5-hour trek to Aguas Calientes and possibly the climb to Machu Picchu — best suited for those in good physical shape.

How many days should I acclimatize before this tour?

At least 2 days in Cusco beforehand is recommended, since day one crosses the Málaga Pass at 4,316 masl, making both walking days more manageable.

9. MACHU PICCHU FULL DAY TOUR

Keywords: Machu Picchu full day tour / full day Machu Picchu tour

OVERVIEW

MACHUPICCHU DESTINOS TRAVEL takes care of your early pickup from Cusco hotels, driving you straight to the Ollantaytambo train station. From there, a train ride carries you to Aguas Calientes, followed by the authorized shuttle bus up to the historic sanctuary, with our team leading you through the entry control process alongside local authorities for this full day Machu Picchu tour.

Specialized guiding then takes over inside the citadel, covering the main sectors, plazas, and ceremonial sites, with independent access arranged for those holding reservations to the additional peaks. The return trip includes the bus descent to town and support at the train terminal for the ride back.

The day wraps up back at Ollantaytambo station, followed by the final overland transfer into downtown Cusco. We close this Machu Picchu full day tour with complete logistical support and drop-off at each passenger's accommodation.

ITINERARY

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What time does the trip leave Cusco and how long does it last?

Pickups start very early to catch the train from Ollantaytambo, with this full day Machu Picchu tour wrapping up back in Cusco by evening.

How long is the train journey to Aguas Calientes?

About 2 hours through the Sacred Valley and cloud forest, offering some of the most scenic train views in Perú, with the Urubamba River and snowy peaks along the way.

How long does the bus take from Aguas Calientes to the citadel?

Roughly 30 minutes each way from the CONSETUR station, with both the ascent and descent bus rides included in this Machu Picchu full day tour.

How long is the guided tour inside Machu Picchu?

About 2 hours through the main sectors and ceremonial plazas, led by a specialized guide who covers the site's history and architecture in detail.

Is climbing Huayna Picchu or Machu Picchu Mountain an option?

Yes, but only with a prior reservation, since these tickets are extremely limited and should be booked well ahead of time.

How challenging is walking inside Machu Picchu?

Expect uneven stone paths with some steps and moderate elevation changes — rated easy overall and manageable for most travelers with basic fitness.

Is there downtime in Aguas Calientes?

Yes, after the citadel visit there's time to grab lunch, walk around town, or shop for souvenirs before catching the return train.

What should I wear on this tour?

Light clothing paired with a lightweight rain jacket works best, given Machu Picchu's humid microclimate. Sturdy footwear with good grip is a must for the uneven terrain.

Are photos allowed inside the citadel?

Yes, throughout the visit, following the guide's instructions and posted signage. Tripods or professional gear require separate permits.

How much acclimatization time should I plan before this tour?

At least 2 days in Cusco is recommended, since the early start and long day ahead can be tough without some prior time adjusting to the altitude.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Which sites are covered on day one before Aguas Calientes?

Chinchero, Moray, the Maras Salt Mines, and Ollantaytambo are all part of day one — making this 2 day Machu Picchu tour a far richer experience than heading straight to the citadel.

What time does pickup happen on the first day?

Between 6:20 am and 7:45 am, depending on where you're staying — timed to make the most of a full day exploring the Sacred Valley.

Where do we spend the night during this trip?

In Aguas Calientes, right at the foot of Machu Picchu — key to arriving at the citadel rested and without rushing back the same day.

What happens during the evening briefing in Aguas Calientes?

The guide meets the group to run through the next day's schedule, circuit options, and helpful tips — an important step in this Machu Picchu 2 day tour for making the most of your visit.

How long is the guided Machu Picchu visit?

About 2 hours and 30 minutes through the citadel's main sectors, with the guide covering history, architecture, and function along the way.

Is there free time in Aguas Calientes after the visit?

Yes — time for lunch, a walk around town, or some souvenir shopping before catching the train back, a well-earned break within the trip.

What time do we get back to Cusco on day two?

In the afternoon, via train from Aguas Calientes to Ollantaytambo, followed by road transport into the city, wrapping up this 2 day Machu Picchu tour.

How tough is the walking inside the citadel?

Uneven stone paths with some steps and moderate elevation changes — rated easy for day two and doable for most travelers with basic fitness.

How much time should I spend acclimatizing beforehand?

At least 2 days in Cusco is a good idea, especially with day one reaching 3,762 masl in Chinchero — Machu Picchu itself, at 2,430 masl, feels much easier once you're adjusted.

What footwear works best for both days?

Hiking boots or sneakers with solid grip handle the uneven terrain of the Sacred Valley and Machu Picchu well, especially given how much walking adds up across the two days.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

How long is this program and what does it cover?

A 2-day trip linking Cusco with Ollantaytambo, Aguas Calientes, and Machu Picchu — designed for arriving at the citadel rested, without the pressure of a same-day return.

What's the plan for day one, including Ollantaytambo?

Day one of this 2 day tour sacred valley and Machu Picchu starts with the transfer from Cusco to Ollantaytambo, where you'll board the train — with some time to explore the Inca town before departing.

How long does the train ride to Aguas Calientes take?

Roughly 1 hour and 40 minutes through stunning Sacred Valley and cloud forest scenery — one of the most scenic train rides around, with views of the Urubamba River.

What's the evening briefing in Aguas Calientes like?

Around 7:00 pm, the guide meets the group at the hotel to go over next-day logistics and tips — a key step in making the most of the Machu Picchu and Sacred Valley Tour.

How long is the second day's guided Machu Picchu visit?

About 2 hours and 30 minutes at a relaxed pace through the main sectors, with the guide sharing history and context throughout.

Is there free time in Aguas Calientes after the citadel visit?

Yes, plenty of time to grab lunch and wander the town before catching the return train — a nice breather before heading back to Cusco.

What time do we arrive back in Cusco on day two?

In the afternoon, via train to Ollantaytambo and then about 2 hours by road — closing out this 2 day tour sacred valley and Machu Picchu.

How challenging is the walk inside Machu Picchu?

Uneven surfaces with some steps and moderate elevation changes, but nothing too demanding — rated easy and workable for most travelers.

How much acclimatization time is recommended?

At least 2 days in Cusco beforehand, since day one starts from the city's 3,399 masl — Machu Picchu at 2,430 masl feels much more comfortable once you're adjusted.

Does this trip include a full Sacred Valley Tour, or just the Ollantaytambo stop?

Day one covers only the Ollantaytambo transfer as a departure point, without a guided archaeological visit. For a fuller valley experience, ask about our Machu Picchu and Sacred Valley Tour options that include the Sacred Valley on day one.

12. LOST CANYON OF PERU – ICA HALF DAY

Keywords: Cañón de los Perdidos / Cañón de los Perdidos ica

OVERVIEW

Prepare to be amazed by the majesty of the Ica desert as you enter one of Perú's most impressive natural formations. The Cañón de los Perdidos reveals a deep fissure sculpted by wind and water over time, offering the perfect backdrop for trekking and adventure enthusiasts.

This half-day trip is your chance to disconnect from routine and explore a mystical stretch of land that pairs perfectly with your travel plans. Visiting Cañón de los Perdidos Ica delivers a memorable experience, with striking scenery inhabited by scavenger birds and framed by multicolored hills that tell the story of the region's geology.

ITINERARY

Ica – Ocucaje Desert – Cañón de los Perdidos

The adventure kicks off with pickup from your hotel or bus terminal in Ica at 6:30 am. We'll drive south, with a strategic stop before entering the desert so you can pick up drinks and snacks for the trip.

By 7:00 am we'll turn toward the Ocucaje Desert, heading for the Cañón de los Perdidos Ica. The route follows a well-kept dirt road past colorful layered hills and a zone rich in ancient marine fossils, arriving after about two hours at the striking 150-meter-deep canyon shaped by erosion and the riverbed.

At the Cañón de los Perdidos lookout point, you'll take in the sheer scale of this natural fracture while watching the scavenger birds circling above. A sandy trail from there — passing salt flats and fossil remains along the way — leads straight to the canyon's scenic spring-fed pools.

By 11:30 am we'll head back toward Ica, stopping briefly at a traditional winery for a complimentary tasting of local piscos and wines. There's free time for optional shopping before arriving back around 3:00 pm.

STATISTICS

- Maximum altitude: 400 meters above sea level – Ocucaje Desert
- Minimum altitude: 350 meters above sea level – City of Ica

INCLUDES:

- Pick-up from your hotel in Ica or bus station
- Tourist transport for the entire tour
- Professional guide specializing in the area
- Entrance tickets to the places to visit

- First aid kit for your safety

EXCLUDES:

- Food and drinks during the excursion
- Personal expenses and voluntary purchases at the winery

WHAT TO BRING?

- Trekking boots or sneakers with good traction for hiking
- Small backpack for personal items and sportswear
- Sunglasses, sunscreen, and insect repellent
- Basic food: fruit, nuts, cookies or energy bars
- Water or rehydration drinks (minimum 1 1/2 liters per person)
- Camera to capture the best landscapes

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Does the tour price include lunch or any meals?

No, meals aren't part of the package. A stop is made before entering the desert so you can buy food, and bringing extra snacks in your bag is a good idea.

What footwear is required for the walk?

Hiking boots or sneakers with solid tread are essential for safely navigating the sandy terrain of the Cañón de los Perdidos.

How long does the drive to the canyon take?

About 2 hours from the Panamericana Sur turnoff into the Ocucaje desert, arriving at the crevice that makes up Cañón de los Perdidos Ica.

What time is pickup and what time do we get back to Ica?

Pickup begins around 6:30 am from your hotel or the bus terminal, with return to Ica scheduled for approximately 3:00 pm.

This Cusco South Valley experience is an essential excursion suited to every kind of traveler, offering an easygoing pace perfect for those wanting to see authentic cultural landscapes beyond the usual routes.

Over the course of this trip, you'll take in a striking visual contrast — imposing Inca constructions, a sprawling pre-Inca city, and a colonial temple filled with religious art. Choosing this South Valley Tour Cusco ensures a full picture of Andean history, complete with direct transfers and thorough explanations that add real depth to your visit.

ITINERARY

Cusco - Tipón Hydraulic Complex - Pikillacta Pre-Inca Citadel - Andahuaylillas Temple

This engaging trip starts with pickup from your accommodation around 8:40 am, before heading south along the paved highway toward Puno — a road framed by charming rural scenery and traditional villages marking the start of this South Valley Cusco route.

First up is the Tipón archaeological site, a sacred space forming part of the Qhapaq Ñan road system. You'll admire an impressive agricultural laboratory of symmetrical terraces, stone staircases, and precisely carved water channels, where water still flows with remarkable precision to this day.

From there, we head to Pikillacta, a massive Wari-culture city and one of the best-preserved pre-Inca settlements in the country. Walking its walled streets and two-story stone structures spread over fifty hectares reveals the urban planning that shaped later civilizations.

The trip wraps up in the charming town of Andahuaylillas, home to a celebrated church considered a highlight of the Andean baroque route. Known worldwide as the Sistine Chapel of America, it houses stunning Cusco-school paintings, gold-leaf woodwork, and colonial murals. We return to the Plaza de Armas around 2:30 p.m., closing out this South Valley Tour Cusco.

- Personal water bottle and light snacks (granola bars, nuts/dried fruit)
- Camera or phone with sufficient battery to photograph the monuments

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Are entry tickets for the archaeological sites and church included in the price?

No, entrance fees aren't part of the base cost. You'll need to get the Cusco Tourist Ticket on your own for Tipón and Pikillacta, plus pay separately at the door for entry to the Andahuayllillas church.

How physically demanding is the walking on this route?

Very light — the walking is easy and works for all ages, with flat, well-marked paths requiring minimal effort compared to other regional tours.

Does transport drop us back at our hotel afterward?

The service typically wraps up downtown, dropping you at the Plaza de Armas or a nearby central spot — a great location to grab lunch or continue exploring on your own after this Cusco South Valley trip.

Do I need to carry cash for this half-day outing?

Yes, bringing cash in soles is highly recommended, mainly for the colonial church entrance fee, local handicrafts, or drinks and snacks during stops on this South Valley Tour Cusco route.

behind these majestic pre-Hispanic strongholds, making every part of your day count toward an unforgettable experience.

ITINERARY

Cusco – Písac Archaeological Site – Urubamba – Ollantaytambo Archaeological Center – Chinchero Historic Town

This engaging morning trip starts with pickup directly from your accommodation in Cusco, or a meeting point at Plaza Regocijo around 7:00 am, before heading out into the lush Andean landscape.

First on the list is the striking Písac complex, an Inca fortress perched on a hilltop with sweeping views over the valley and farmland below, where you'll walk among its renowned agricultural terraces and sacred zones.

From there, we continue to the historic town of Ollantaytambo — one of the oldest continuously inhabited settlements dating back to Inca times, known for its aqueducts and stone-paved streets.

A stop in Urubamba follows, where a cozy local spot serves a satisfying buffet lunch featuring the region's signature dishes, part of this Sacred Valley Tour from Cusco.

The day wraps up in the enchanting town of Chinchero, celebrated for its impressive agricultural terraces built during the reign of Pachacútec, along with its rich, colorful textile tradition. The trip closes with a relaxed return to Plaza Regocijo in Cusco as the afternoon winds down.

STATISTICS

EXCLUDES:

- Entrance tickets

WHAT TO BRING?

- Camera
- Sun block
- Water bottle
- Peruvian Soles in cash

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Does the price include entry tickets to the archaeological sites?

No — each traveler needs to buy the Cusco Tourist Ticket separately to access Písac, Ollantaytambo, and Chinchero, since this Sacred Valley Tour from Cusco doesn't include entrance fees.

How physically demanding are the walks along this route?

Expect a light-to-moderate effort. You'll walk pre-Hispanic paths and climb some stone steps at the sites, but the pace is relaxed and manageable for people with average mobility.

Does the tour vehicle return us to our hotel afterward?

Transport typically ends downtown at Plaza Regocijo, just a block from the main square — a convenient spot for dinner or heading back to your hotel independently.

Is carrying cash necessary for this full-day trip?

Yes, cash in Peruvian soles is highly recommended — needed for entry to the salt mines, local souvenir shopping, or an extra drink along the way during this Cusco Sacred Valley Tour.

15. SACRED VALLEY VIP MARAS – MORAY FULL DAY TOUR

Keywords: Sacred Valley Tour / Maras and Moray

OVERVIEW

With Machu Picchu Destinos Travel, explore a landscape of extraordinary beauty home to grand archaeological wonders. This VIP program is built for travelers wanting a deep understanding of Inca splendor through a living legacy that connects directly with the past. This expanded experience covers both classic circuits and the astonishing Maras and Moray region.

Choosing this Sacred Valley Tour guarantees a full, well-optimized route, backed by a professional team and direct transfers to agricultural laboratories, ancient salt mines, and stone citadels — turning your trip into a truly enriching journey.

ITINERARY

Cusco - Chinchero - Moray Complex - Maras Salt Mines - Urubamba - Ollantaytambo Fortress - Písac Inca Site

This thorough journey starts with pickup from your hotel in Cusco around 6:30 am, or a meeting point at Plaza Regocijo depending on your location, before heading toward the historic town of Chinchero.

The first stop showcases Chinchero's spectacular farming terraces, monumental earthworks dating back to the height of the Inca empire under Pachacútec.

We then move into the Maras and Moray area, where you'll be amazed by the circular terraces once used as a sophisticated Inca agricultural laboratory, followed by the striking natural salt pans that make up this famous Maras and Moray landscape.

Midday brings us to the heart of Urubamba, where a local restaurant serves a hearty buffet lunch with a variety of delicious options.

The mystical fortress of Ollantaytambo comes next, recognized as one of the longest continuously inhabited settlements in all of Cusco, where pre-Hispanic history is felt in every corner.

The archaeological portion wraps up with a climb up to Písac, a grand and scenic Inca site perched atop a hill overlooking the town below.

We then head back toward the imperial city, closing the circuit with a drop-off at Plaza Regocijo, conveniently located just one block from Cusco's main square.

STATISTICS

- Maximum altitude: 3,762 meters above sea level – Town of Chinchero
- Minimum altitude: 2,792 meters above sea level – Ollantaytambo Fortress
- Duration: Full Day (all day, including transfers and guided visits)
- Difficulty: Easy - Moderate

PRICE: 30 USD PER PERSON

INCLUDES:

- I will pick you up from your centrally located hotel in Cusco or an agreed meeting point.
- Tourist transport service assigned for the entire circuit.
- Accompaniment by a professional bilingual tour guide.
- Buffet lunch at a local restaurant in Urubamba.

EXCLUDES:

- General or partial admission tickets (BTG: tourist tickets for archaeological sites).

- Direct entry ticket for the salt flats sector (10 soles per person).
- Extra consumption, additional drinks or personal expenses of any kind.

WHAT TO BRING?

- Camera or phone to record the imposing monuments.
- High protection sunscreen to protect yourself during walks.
- Personal water bottle to stay well hydrated on the trail.
- Peruvian Soles in cash for local income payments and minor purchases.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Are entrance fees to the Inca sites and salt mines covered?

No — passengers need to arrange their own Cusco Tourist Ticket (BTG) for the archaeological zones and bring cash for entry to the salt mines, since this Sacred Valley Tour doesn't include these fees.

How physically demanding is this VIP circuit?

It ranges from easy to moderate, with well-kept trails and paced walking sections, making the route accessible to most visitors.

Does transport drop us back at our accommodation?

The trip wraps up downtown at Plaza Regocijo, extremely convenient given its closeness to most hotels and the Plaza de Armas.

Do I really need cash in local currency?

Yes — Peruvian soles in cash are essential, required at the salt mine entrance (10 soles) and useful for buying souvenirs during stops throughout this Maras and Moray experience.

16. CUSCO CITY TOUR HALF DAY

Keywords: Cusco city tour / city tour Cusco

OVERVIEW

Use the afternoon hours wisely to take in the architectural legacy of the Inca capital with Machu Picchu Destinos Travel. This city tour Cusco experience takes a close look at the main Santo Domingo temple and the ancient Qorikancha site, along with the outlying fortresses of Sacsayhuamán, Q'enqo, Puca Pucará, and Tambomachay.

A Cusco city tour like this one lets you cover all the essential sites, both downtown and beyond, in a single compact circuit. You'll benefit from smooth transfers and expert guiding that helps you make sense of how pre-Hispanic and colonial layers overlap across the city.

ITINERARY

Cusco - Qorikancha Temple - Sacsayhuamán Fortress - Q'enqo Amphitheater - Puca Pucará - Tambomachay Fountains

The tour begins by gathering the group at a set central point as the afternoon gets underway. First stop: Qorikancha, once the most important religious center in the Inca empire, built from finely cut stone in honor of Inti, the sun god.

From there, a short drive takes us up to the higher part of the city for Sacsayhuamán, an enormous stronghold of massive stone blocks overlooking the historic center. Nearby, Q'enqo awaits — a labyrinth of limestone rock formations once used in rituals connected to preserving and mummifying deceased rulers.

Next comes Puca Pucará, a fortified outpost whose Quechua name means "red fort," a nod to the reddish glow its stone walls take on at sunset. Just a short distance away, Tambomachay closes out the visit — a site once used for rest by high Inca officials, known for the channels where water still flows continuously to this day, part of this city tour Cusco.

Once the archaeological visits wrap up, the vehicle takes us back down into the city center, with the service ending as passengers are dropped off at the starting point or the main square as evening sets in.

STATISTICS

- Maximum altitude: 3,765 meters above sea level – Tambomachay Archaeological Site
- Minimum altitude: 3,400 meters above sea level – Qorikancha Temple
- Duration: Half Day
- Difficulty: Easy

PRICE: 15 USD PER PERSON

INCLUDES:

- I will pick you up from your centrally located hotel in Cusco or an agreed meeting point.
- Tourist transport service assigned for the entire circuit.
- Accompaniment by a certified professional tour guide.

EXCLUDES:

- General or partial admission tickets (BTG: pass for archaeological sites).
- Direct entry ticket for the Qorikancha temple (25 soles for foreigners, 15 soles for nationals).
- Food, lunch, drinks or snacks during the activity.

WHAT TO BRING?

- Comfortable shoes or sneakers with good grip for walking on dirt.
- Lightweight rain poncho or waterproof jacket (essential from December to April).
- A wide-brimmed hat and sunscreen are essential for protection from daytime radiation.
- Peruvian Soles in cash for payment of local access fees and minor expenses.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Can site entries be paid by credit card during the tour?

No, Qorikancha's ticket booth and the archaeological sites only take cash in soles. Bring the exact amount beforehand to avoid issues during this Cusco city tour.

Does the visiting order of the sites ever change?

It can, in order to avoid crowds during peak hours or adapt to weather conditions, though full coverage of all listed sites is always guaranteed.

Do I need extra warm clothing for this afternoon tour?

Yes, a windbreaker or warm jacket is highly recommended, since temperatures drop quickly once the sun sets at higher sites like Tambomachay and Sacsayhuamán during this city tour Cusco.

17. RAINBOW MOUNTAIN ATV FULL DAY TOUR

Keywords: Atv Rainbow Mountain / Rainbow Mountain ATV Tour

OVERVIEW

Love speed but don't want to skip the most stunning scenery in the Andes? Machu Picchu Destinos Travel brings you an innovative way to reach the heights. This Rainbow Mountain ATV Tour is ideal for chasing adrenaline while keeping physical effort to a minimum.

If you're planning your Cusco getaway and want an Atv Rainbow Mountain experience that stands out from the usual routes, this ride-based alternative delivers. We take care of all logistics, transport, and gear so you can focus on the cold wind and the full off-road thrill.

ITINERARY

Wheeled Journey to Vinicunca Mountain (Cusco - Vinicunca - Cusco)

The adventure begins around 4:00 am, when a shared minivan picks you up at your hotel for a two-hour drive south of Cusco through scenic rural landscapes, stopping in Cusipata for a traditional breakfast.

From there, another two-hour overland stretch along a narrow road leads deep into the mountains to the official parking area, where a safety briefing from our tour instructor gets you ready for what's next.

The 30-minute ATV ride along a purpose-built mountain trail follows, delivering unbeatable views of towering peaks, snowcapped summits, and grazing alpacas as part of this Atv Rainbow Mountain experience. A short, easy 10-minute walk caps off the ride.

At the summit of Vinicunca, there's plenty of time to soak in the sacred landscape and snap memorable photos. The return trip takes you back to the parking area, the minivan to Cusipata for a traditional lunch, and finally back to Cusco by around 5:30 pm.

STATISTICS

- Maximum altitude: 5,036 meters above sea level – Vinicunca Mountain Summit
- Minimum altitude: 3,310 meters above sea level – Town of Cusipata
- Duration: Full day (approximately 13.5 hours)
- Difficulty: Moderate (low physical effort, but high demand due to altitude)

PRICE: 90 USD PER PERSON

INCLUDES:

- I pick you up at a central point.
- Tour Instructor
- Transport
- Safety helmet
- Typical breakfast
- Typical lunch

EXCLUDES:

- Admission ticket
- Life insurance
- additional expenses
- Snacks

WHAT TO BRING?

- Comfortable and durable footwear (preferably trekking shoes or sports shoes with good grip).
- Thick rain poncho (essential if you take the tour during the rainy season from December to April).
- Wide-brimmed hat, cap and sunscreen with a high UV protection factor.
- Extra cash and local currency (Peruvian soles) to cover personal income and expenses.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Do I need previous ATV experience for this tour?

Not really — the ATVs are automatic and simple to operate, and a hands-on practice session with our instructor in the parking area covers the basics of acceleration and braking before hitting the trail.

What parts of the tour are on foot versus on the vehicle?

Most of the climb happens by vehicle: 4 hours total in the minivan round trip, plus 30 minutes each way on the ATV. Only a light 10-minute walk is needed to actually reach the main Vinicunca viewpoint.

Does the Rainbow Mountain ATV Tour price cover community entrance fees?

No — the official entry ticket is not part of the base package and must be paid in cash (soles) directly at the community-run control booths in the district.

Is this extreme activity safe given the altitude involved?

Yes, as long as safety guidelines are followed and the provided helmet stays on throughout. Since the route sits above 4,000 masl, at least one full acclimatization day in Cusco beforehand is strongly advised, along with avoiding heavy meals the night before.

18. AUSANGATE 7 LAKES FULL DAY TOUR

Keywords: Ausangate 7 Lakes / 7 Lagunas Ausangate

OVERVIEW

Ever wanted to discover the best-kept secrets of the Andean glaciers? Machu Picchu Destinos Travel invites you to explore a stunning water circuit set against legendary mountain peaks. The 7 Lagunas Ausangate trail immerses you in a landscape framed by the Vilcanota range and the Ausangate and Ayangate summits.

This trip suits anyone drawn to raw nature, local life, and pristine high-Andean scenery. Looking to step away from typical tourism? The Ausangate 7 Lakes circuit delivers an unforgettable day of pure disconnection, ending with a relaxing soak in hot springs overlooking the mountains.

ITINERARY

Andean Exploration and Turquoise Mirrors (Cusco - Pacchanta - 7 Lakes - Cusco)

The journey starts at 05:00 am with pickup right at your Cusco hotel, followed by a roughly six-hour drive to the beautiful community of Pacchanta, taking in impressive high-Andean flora and fauna along the way.

Once in Pacchanta, a hearty traditional breakfast fuels you up before the trek begins — an 11-kilometer trail that unfolds over about five hours of continuous exploration facing towering glaciers, the heart of this 7 Lagunas Ausangate adventure.

The route passes seven stunning water mirrors: Azulqocha, Orco Otorongo, China Otorongo, Puqacocha, Alqacocha, Qomercocha, and Patacocha. Along the way, native birds, alpacas, llamas, vizcachas, and — with luck — the majestic Andean condor make an appearance, immersing you in local mystique and mountain grandeur.

Back in Pacchanta after the lake circuit, a delicious local lunch awaits, followed by rest and a dip in the relaxing hot springs. The return drive ends at Plaza Regocijo, a block from the Plaza de Armas.

STATISTICS

- Access to the relaxing hot springs area with panoramic views of the eastern mountains.

EXCLUDES:

- Any personal expenses, snacks or services not described in the original route.

WHAT TO BRING?

- Warm clothing, comfortable shoes for 11-kilometer walks, and a rain poncho.
- Swimsuit and towel to enjoy the relaxing hot springs of Pacchanta.
- Extra money in soles for local purchases or personal emergencies during the trip.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What wildlife might I see on this circuit?

Expect llamas and alpacas grazing along the 11-km trail, plus native birds and vizcachas — and if you're lucky, the Andean condor soaring overhead during this 7 Lagunas Ausangate hike.

Where exactly does this day trip begin and end?

It starts with hotel pickup in Cusco at 05:00 am and ends with drop-off at Plaza Regocijo in the afternoon, just a block from the Plaza de Armas, after the return drive from Pacchanta.

How far do we walk, and how long does it take?

The trek covers 11 kilometers total, taking roughly five hours to explore all seven lakes — Azulqocha, Orco Otorongo, China Otorongo, Puqacocha, Alqacocha, Qomercocha, and Patacocha — at a comfortable pace.

Besides hiking, what else is included in this trip?

The itinerary also includes time at the community's hot springs, a relaxing way to unwind and take in the mountain views after the trek across this Ausangate 7 Lakes route.

PRICE: 15 USD PER PERSON

INCLUDES:

- I will pick you up from your centrally located hotel in Cusco or an agreed meeting point.
- Tourist transport service assigned for the entire circuit.
- Accompaniment by a certified professional tour guide.

EXCLUDES:

- General or partial admission tickets (BTG: pass for the Moray archaeological site).
- Direct entry ticket for the Maras salt flats area.
- Food, lunch, drinks or snacks during the activity.

WHAT TO BRING?

- Comfortable shoes or sneakers with good grip for walking on dirt.
- Lightweight rain poncho or waterproof jacket (essential from December to April).
- A wide-brimmed hat and sunscreen are essential for protection from daytime radiation.
- Peruvian Soles in cash for payment of local access fees and minor expenses.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Can visitors walk between the salt pools at Maras?

No — environmental preservation rules restrict foot access between the pools, so all viewing and photos happen from designated lookout points on the tour.

Is lunch included as part of this circuit?

No, since it's a half-day activity wrapping up in early afternoon. A good breakfast beforehand and some packed snacks are recommended.

What's the typical weather like on this high-altitude route?

Conditions vary quite a bit — sunny mornings are common, but the altiplano wind stays cool and steady, so a light jacket always helps during this Moray Maras Tour.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

How is acclimatization handled for the high-altitude hikes?

The itinerary is structured so lower-altitude stops (Lima, Ica, Sacred Valley, Machu Picchu) come first, letting your body gradually adjust before the demanding Humantay and Rainbow Mountain treks.

What if altitude sickness hits during the hikes?

Adventure guides are trained in mountain first aid and carry backup oxygen and medical kits throughout the Humantay and Vinicunca trips. Horse rental is also available locally at an extra cost, run by community members.

Are Lima to Cusco domestic flights included?

No, these aren't part of the standard package, but our travel advisors can help quote and add them to your Perú trip packages on request.

What comfort level can I expect on the Ica and Huacachina tour?

Air-conditioned tourist vehicles handle the road trip, life jackets are mandatory for the Paracas boat excursion, and licensed professional pilots operate the desert buggies.

Where does my luggage stay during the overnight trip to Aguas Calientes?

Train services cap carry-on baggage at 5 kg per person, so your main suitcase stays safely stored at your Cusco hotel free of charge, while you travel light with just a small backpack for the overnight stay.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

How long does this package last and what does it include?

A 6-day package combining Machu Picchu, Humantay Lake, and Rainbow Mountain, one of the most complete Cusco tour packages for covering the region's top three destinations in one trip.

Why does day one focus only on rest and transfer?

Cusco's 3,399 masl altitude means jumping straight into activities can trigger altitude sickness, so these Cusco travel packages build in a free first day for gradual acclimatization.

What's covered in the Sacred Valley on day two?

A buffet lunch in Urubamba and a visit to Ollantaytambo, ahead of the train ride to Aguas Calientes, giving a first taste of Inca heritage before Machu Picchu.

How long is the Machu Picchu guided tour?

Day three's visit covers the citadel's main archaeological sectors with a specialized guide, the centerpiece of the whole program.

How tough is the Humantay Lake hike on day four?

About 1 hour and 30 minutes of continuous ascent from Soraypampa to the lake at 4,200 masl, with poles, oxygen, and a first aid kit included as safety measures throughout these travel packages to Cusco Perú.

Which day is the hardest?

Day five at Rainbow Mountain, 5,036 masl, given the altitude and hike length, scheduled after four days of gradual acclimatization.

Can I rent a horse for Rainbow Mountain or Humantay Lake?

Yes, at both sites, through local community members for an extra cost not included in the package, a good option for those with physical limitations.

What safety gear comes with the high-mountain hikes?

Support poles, an oxygen tank, and a first aid kit, standard equipment for any high-altitude activity in these Cusco tour packages.

How many nights of accommodation are included?

Five nights total, one in Aguas Calientes and the rest in Cusco, worth confirming hotel category at booking based on your preferences.

What time is the airport transfer on the last day?

Coordinated according to your departure flight on day six, included as the final service closing out these Cusco travel packages.
